How to reset altec lansing life jacket

December 2, 2021 by Cathie Categories Guides Post navigation How Do I Update My Chromebook Software? How To Pair iPhones Via Bluetooth? Bluetooth is a radio technology, which means it is sensitive to objects between connected devices. To avoid cracking noises, it is recommended a distance of no more than the wireless distance with no major objects in-between. An awesome team of students from our education program made this wiki. This troubleshooting page will help you diagnose problems with the Altec Lansing Mini Lifejacket 2, identified by model number IMW477. The speaker will not connect to any devices through bluetooth. Make sure the hardware and software are working properly by making sure they connect when prompted. If the audio source says that it is not compatible then turn the device off in order to reset the bluetooth on the receiving device. Make sure that the speaker is in discoverable mode, denoted by the blinking blue light on the front of the device. Make sure the speaker is within 30 feet of your bluetooth device when attempting to connect. If your speaker was successfully paired but the connection is failing, make sure that the speaker is within 30 feet of your bluetooth device and no large objects or walls are obstructing it. Try to unpair the devices, then reconnect them. If the device seems to be functioning normally but refuses to pair with other devices, the bluetooth antenna may not be receiving a signal. In this case, you may wish to follow our circuit board replacement guide. The speaker will not charge or turn on. Check if the speaker is charging when you plug it through the charging port, denoted by a steady red light located at the center of the speaker. If the speaker is not charging there may be a problem with the charging port or the power cable. Try a different power source or a different cable. If the problem persists, consider replacing the charging port using our back panel replacement guide. If the device appears to be charging but won't turn on, the battery may be dead. To replace the battery, follow our battery replacement guide. The speaker emits buzzing, distortion, or hissing sounds. A possible reason for the device emitting weird sounds could be because the volume is too high. If that is the case, you are hearing an audio pop which occurs when the sound is too high. Adjust the volume in this case. Another possibility is that the audio itself is faulty. Check the audio quality on another device to make sure it is alright. The wireless range of the device is 30 feet. To avoid audio disruptions, place the speaker within the range of the device it is connected to. If it emits distorted sounds such as static or fuzz, make sure that there is no large object in between the speaker and the device it is connected to. If the device continues to emit strange sounds, check the signal through both bluetooth and the auxiliary cable. If both are working properly and the problem still exists, then the speaker may be faulty and needs to be replaced. In this case follow the link to below to check out our speaker replacement guide. The speaker's battery won't hold charge for the advertised 10 hours. To check if your device has a faulty battery unplug it and see if it stays charged for a prolonged period of time. If the device does not stay charged then you may have a faulty battery. To replace the battery, follow our battery replacement guide. When the device is fully charged make sure to unplug it from the charging source. The battery's lifespan could be shortened if overcharged multiple times. The speaker is powered on, but won't play audio. Make sure your audio source is not muted and its volume is up. Press the + button on top of the speaker to increase its volume. Check to make sure your bluetooth device is turned on and is discoverable. A blinking blue light on the front of the speaker means it is ready to make a connection. A steady blue light means the speaker is paired. Make sure the speaker isn't already connected to a different device. If the speaker won't play audio through the 3.5mm auxiliary port, the cable may be faulty. First, test the speaker's connection through bluetooth, then through the auxiliary port. If the problem is only present in the auxiliary port, make sure that both ends of the cable are properly connected. If possible, test the connection with a different 3.5mm cable. If a new cable does not fix the issue, the auxiliary port itself may be defective. If the issues stated above do not help, then the fault may be with the speaker. Symptoms of a faulty speaker may be very quiet or muffled audio, or none at all. In that case, the speaker will have to be replaced. You can do this by following our speaker replacement guide.
